

Dear friends,

Hello and welcome to my little brochure (No trees were harmed).

For two years I've been wandering up hill and down dale, along memory lane and into the unknown. I jetted off on flights of fancy and came home again to paint what I saw.

These are my picture postcards to you and I hope you like them.

Love,

SJ

A COLLECTION OF NEW ORIGINAL ARTWORKS

The seashore can be a melancholy place. While wandering along the North East coast, I came upon a dark cave and remembered 'Puff'.

"His head was bent in sorrow, green scales fell like rain, Puff no longer went to play along the cherry lane"

We all need someone to believe in us.

*I used to have a motorcycle but when I turned 40 I had a
reverse mid-life crisis
(and a hip operation)
and sold it.*

*Maybe it's not too late
to get another...*

BORN TO RUN

OIL ON CANVAS BOARD

45 cm x 35 cm (+ frame)

£1,600 includes VAT @ 20%

SOLD

*This time I'm in a place
so far flung, I don't even know how I got here.
However, food seems to be the music of love so,
"Play on, biscuit, play on".*

Summer in Hungary
means huge, sweet watermelons, each slice
like a wide red smile.

A sad bit: In his final week
of a terrible cancer, my dad's throat was surgically closed off;
he couldn't swallow or speak.
We kept his mouth moist with pieces of watermelon.

This magnificent fruit helped us to care for him to the end.

Now, I said I could
fly you anywhere,
but I can't always
promise five star
accommodation.

I saw the gondoliers
relaxing after a tiring
day on the canals.
I really wanted to call
this painting 'Just one Cornetto' but I realised with horror that my musical reference would be at least a couple of decades out of date.

*I noticed that stylish Italians love Campari
before a meal. I tried it and gradually came to enjoy the bitterness of this garish orange liqueur.
After two glasses, sausage
dogs appeared to multiply
before my eyes.*

While we roam this
astonishing planet,
let's do our very best to
protect the environment
and hopefully avoid (or at least slow down)
the prospect of further global calamity.

Clearly this is nonsense.
I much prefer a pink wafer.
Happily, Sarah-Jane has written a jolly new book about those gingerbread.
I'm not in it (cheek) but the following biscuits are...

THE EYE HOSPITAL
